

FINCA ADALGISA

Year Founded: 1916

Region: Mendoza, Argentina

Winemaker / Owner:

Carmello Patti & the Furlotti Family

Known for: Considered the smallest winery in Argentina.

Finca Adalgisa is a micro-winery and boutique hotel located in Chacras de Coria (Lujan) Mendoza.

The three-hectare estate goes back three generations within the Furlotti family.

Their Malbec vineyard (0.85ha) was planted in 1916. Famed Argentine winemaker Carmello Patti produces their only wine. His specialty focuses on balance and terroir. Adalgisa is considered the smallest winery in Argentina and produces less than 500cs per year, with only 50cs available to the USA every year.

2012 Finca Adalgisa Malbec, Chacras de Coria

12/.750L

3/1.5L

Planted at the Finca Adalgisa vineyard on alluvial, sandy, and loam soil. Aged in French and American oak for two years and one year in bottle. 20 days maceration/fermentation. Native yeast.
Sold in a wooden box!

91 Points - '11 Robert Parker - "It has a very distinct nose, with unusual aromas (aromatic herbs, mint, leather, fennel) that also make it to the palate, where the texture is built by fine-grained tannins. It has been polished by time in bottle and it's very approachable, but it also seems to have balance to develop in bottle."

91 Points - '11 Wine Enthusiast